LADIES' CLUB JUBILEE

Congo Church at Bethel Free From Debt

Last Thursday evening the Ladies' Club of the Congo Church at Bethel Free From Debt.

The chapel and parlor were made inviting and homelike with decorations of cut flowers and a goodly number gathered to listen to the story of the struggle and to enjoy the program which was given. The president, Mrs. W. O. Straw, presided. All joined in singing Coronation, which was followed by the invocation by Rev. W. O. Curtis, the pastor. The secretary, Mrs. J. U. Purington, read the story of the raising of the debt during the past ten years, which showed that the women have worked patiently and bravely. As the president, who held the mortgage and had been the generous giver of $1400, laid it upon the flames, all joined in singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Mr. Upson sang two selections to the delight of the audience, accompanied on the piano by Miss Miriam Herlick. Light refreshments were served and a social hour followed, then the singing of America closed a pleasant evening long to be remembered.

THE SECRETARY'S STORY.

Madam President, Members of the Church, Parish and Friends. We have met to hold a jubilee for the success that has crowned the efforts of the faithful band, who, through patient toil have made this meeting possible, and we present the following report:

May 12, 1902 The Ladies' Club met with Mrs. Chandler, Rev. C. N. Gleason, then pastor of the church, called and asked permission to present to the ladies the plan for the building of a parsonage, as he recognized that the ladies in all churches take the initiative in church affairs. The need was surely great and acknowledged by all, for with the calling of a pastor the question of a suitable rent had been a perplexing one and especially so at this time. Mr. Gleason suggested that a parsonage which would cost $1800 would meet our needs. Mrs. Martin Chapman, who was always an optimist, encouraged and inspired us with zeal, and plans were at once made to call a parish and church meeting.

On May 20, 1902 a Church and Parish meeting was called and a committee appointed to purchase a lot and secure plans for a parsonage. At once $600 were subscribed, but at the completion of the building a large debt had accrued. So, ready to help, as has always been their custom, the Ladies' Club voted to pay $100.00 annually. It was not long before we found ourselves paying much more than that sum and soon came to realize that the burden of the debt rested entirely with our brave little club. The payments began in November 1902. I wish I could tell you the experiences which have come into the twelve years in which we have been preparing to burn the mortgage. Many have worked and sacrificed and often been discouraged but willing hands and brave hearts have brought us out of the difficult places. At one time when we were sorely pressed Mrs. Whitney quietly dropped $20.00 into our treasury. At another time a five dollar gold piece was found with the emergency fund and we knew Mrs. Billings must have understood our needs. As we neared the completion of our debt Mrs. O'Brien proposed giving the last ten dollars which with a gift of $50.00 from the C. E. Society and small amounts from time to time from several interested members have made our gifts about $100.00. What have we done to raise so much money? I can tell you of only a few of the many things we have done. We have had suppers, food sales, bazaar, entertainments, concerts, socials, birthday and dollar parties, etc. We must not forget our mid-summer fairs and our December sales for they have been a source of great help and we have to thank the strangers who have made their home in our beautiful Bethel for a time and who have patronized us so liberally, as well as our own people who have done so much to make them a success. Mrs. Gleason has given several benefits. Mrs. Curtis has provided concerts and entertainments and I am sure many wonderful nights have been spent by the faithful, enthusiastic workers of our

GOULD'S ACADEMY

Virgil Wright spent Sunday at his home in Berlin.

Herbert Bean spent the week end at his home in Albany.

Marie Swan was a visitor at the Academy last Monday.

All classes except the Freshman class have elected their class officers.

Frank Bean was the guest of James Hayford at Hanover, for over Sunday.

Robert and William Hastings spent the week end with their parents at East Bethel.

Annie Cummings, who went home for the week end, has been detained at home this week.

This week the Y. W. C. A. will be led by Mrs. Gehring, who has chosen for her topic: Things that endure.

Leo Cole is to be the leader of the Y. M. C. A. this week. His topic is: Why we should not find fault with the church.

The Y. W. C. A. last week was led by Gladys Davis, who is president of the Association. She held the interest of the girls by a delightful talk about her visit to Silver Bay, and by pictures taken there. After the meeting refreshments were served in the dining room of Holden Hall.

Last Saturday, twenty-one students, teachers and friends went to Locke's Mills to spend the day. They carried a picnic dinner to be eaten at Kimball cottage near Round Pond. In spite of the wind and cold, the boats were in constant use and several of the party went in bathing. The members of the party were: Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Sloan, Mrs. Knight, Miss Pratt, Miss Whitmore, Ruth Elliott, Eva Bartlett, Florence Chapman, Hattie Knight, Dorothy Hutchins, Erma Plores, Kathelyn Hanson, Margaret Hanson, Dorothy Hanson, Roger Sloan, Harris Hamlin, Laurant Pligres, Harry Young, Homer Bartlett, Robert Hanson, Edward Hanson.

Club, to devise ways and means to close the debt.

In 1911 Mrs. Straw generously relieved us from paying interest. This lifted a heavy burden and we rejoiced. She then gave us the opportunity of placing $1400 in the bank as a (Ladies' Club Fund). Of course this met with hearty approval and a vote of thanks was given our kind benefactress, still more help came to us when she told us that when we had deposited $1000 in the bank she would burn the mortgage of $1400, thus giving us $400, and the interest of $1400 for three years and a fund of $1000, thus making us a gift of $1400. Over and over again we have expressed our appreciation and, tonight we would again thank her and all who have made it possible for us to assemble here on this happy occasion.

On August 20, 1914, the last sum was deposited in the bank and we are free from debt, with a fund of $1000 in the bank and a small balance in the treasury and the Church and Parish own a fine parsonage.

I am sure it will be gratifying to all, to listen to a few statistics, although I know they are usually considered tiresome, but I will condense them as much as possible. We have paid on the parsonage debt $3,947.67 and $613.74 interest. We have paid $1,500.00 for Pastors salary and have met many incidental expenses. Our earnings have been nearly $6,500. During the twelve years, several of our beloved and efficient members have been called to a higher service, and with every loss came an added responsibility for those who were left. The wise counsels of Mrs. Martha Chapman, the sweet dignity of Mrs. "True," the efficiency of Mrs. Richardson and the readiness to help of Mrs. Barker will always linger in the memory of our club, and we feel that they are rejoicing with us tonight as we close the work in which they had so large a share. I cannot close without saying that a spirit of harmony in our club, and a willingness to work together has made success possible.

Yanley Mrs. Hard; in some obstinate cases it will be the max. Stevens.

Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it.

Abraham Lincoln.

CANTON FAIR

26th Annual The Best in Years

The 26th annual fair of the Androscoggin Valley Agricultural Society, held at Canton fair grounds, was the best in years, and immense crowds of people from all parts of the country attended. Usually the first day of the fair is not as largely attended as the second and third days, the day being mostly one of preparation, but this year everything was in readiness the first day, the entries closed at noon and the fair was on.

The officers of the fair have worked untiringly for its success and they felt well repaid for all their efforts. Many improvements have been made on the grounds, a vaudeville stage has been built, a water tank erected, and many other improvements made.

The officers of the fair are: President, J. M. Johnson, Lewiston; Vice President, Stanley Bisbee, Rumford; Secretary, O. M. Richardson, Canton; Treasurer, C. L. Wallin, Canton; Trustees: C. H. Bonney, Sumner; Dwight Bisbee, Canton; Ezra Keene, Hartford; Walter Morse, Rumford; W. S. Marble, Dixfield; H. R. Robinson, Peru. Division Superintendents—Grounds, lots and forage, Dwight Bisbee; Stock, C. H. Bonney and H. R. Robinson; Horses and manager of races, J. M. Johnson; Hall, W. S. Marble; Committees, Stanley Bisbee and Ezra Keene; Tickets and gates, Walter Morse.

Every day of the fair there were excellent attractions and something doing all the time. The races were the best ever, the vaudeville show was first class in every respect and the ball games were of the best. A balloon ascension was enjoyed each day and the celebrated boys band of Rumford of 100 pieces made a big hit. This band is under the leadership of Prof. Thiel. The second day was a record breaker in attendance, it being estimated that 7,000 people were on the grounds.

There was the usual number of side shows, fairs, etc., which go to make up a fair.

The exhibits in all departments were fully up to the usual high standard. The hall exhibits were exceedingly large and fine, every available space being taken up. Especial mention should be made of the exhibit of the primary, intermediate and grammar schools of Canton which were on the first floor of the exhibition building. Here also was a big display of fruit, vegetables, cut flowers and canned goods. On this floor the Canton Universalist Society served excellent lunches and booths for the sale of leather goods, jewelry, pianos, stock food, ice cream and a taxidermist display were on the opposite side.

The second floor containing the arts and crafts display was filled to its utmost capacity. The hall itself had been made most attractive and artistic by Miss Mary N. Richardson, the color scheme being terra cotta and green. Canton Grange and Rockwood Grange of Peru made big exhibits and the general display was large. The Universalist Society had a booth from which aprons and fancy articles were sold and Miss A. H. Nolly had a display of millinery. Miss Mary N. Richardson exhibited lifelike oil portraits which attracted universal attention.

Among the exhibitors of cattle may be mentioned J. E. Haskell, Sept of "Hendelade Farm," C. E. Richardson, Bisbee Bros., C. W. Walker, Jr., of Canton; C. A. Bonney, East Sumner; Moses Young, Hartford; C. H. Bonney, F. R. Sargent, Herbert Bisbee, H. F. Varney, Sumner; John Davenport, Percy Davenport, Herbert Sampson, Hartford; Sowell Staples, Peru; and G. H. Virgin, Jay; W. L. Park, Chas. H. Young and J. L. Sackles, Hartford.

Among the exhibitors of horses and colts were: Mrs. Lottie Bruce, Dixfield; J. L. Sackles, Leon Knapp, L. E. Poland, Geo. Reed, W. L. Roberts, B. H. Pierce, Ralph Caldwell, Ira Wing, G. B. McMenamin, and F. H. Stone.

VERIFICATION OF SAVINGS BANK DEPOSITS

The Legislature of 1911 passed a law under the title of "Annual Examinations and Verifications of Savings Deposits" providing that during that year and every third year thereafter every savings bank and institution for savings and every trust and banking company maintaining a savings department, shall cause the books of the savings depositors to be verified by such method and under such rules as the bank commissioner shall prescribe. The treasurer of every bank or institution for savings and trust and banking companies making such verification shall submit proof to the State auditor and such expense shall be paid by the State from taxes paid by savings banks and trust companies not appropriated for the use of schools.

Harry M. Smith of Bangor, State bank commissioner, has sent out circulars to the officers, trustees and directors of savings banks and trust companies maintaining a savings department calling their attention to the law.

Commissioner Smith states that calling in pass books can best be done when the officials of the bank wish and can afford to employ an accountant or auditing company to make a thorough audit of the year's work. In case a bank should choose this method, the treasurer shall make an estimate of the cost of this work, that is, a definite amount to cover the cost to the State, and the treasurer shall work a fair adjustment of the State's part of the expenses after the work is done with the State auditor, on the basis of estimate made. The audit company shall report to the bank commissioner the errors found, or to the directors first if they so decide.

Commissioner Smith suggests that the directors or executive board shall employ some competent person not otherwise connected with the bank to make a correct list of the numbers and amounts of all savings depositors' accounts as shown by the books of the bank, ascertain the total amount thereof, and compare it with the total amount of savings deposits as carried on the books of the bank.

This list shall be published once in a newspaper printed and published in the city or town in which the bank is located, if any, otherwise in any newspaper printed and published in the county in which the bank is located, and a printed copy of said notice and list shall be mailed to the P. O. address of every savings depositor, as shown by the books of the bank, or otherwise ascertained, by the person employed to make said list.

No person, except the one who made and mailed the list, shall have access to the P. O. box to which the savings depositors are requested to address reports.

All discrepancies discovered by the person employed, or claimed by savings depositors shall be reported to the Bank Commissioner, who in turn will report to the Board of Directors or executive board at a regular or special meeting, and shall not be divulged to anyone previous to such report, or the persons so employed may report to the directors first if they so decide.

Commissioner Smith's Statement.

Harry M. Smith of Bangor, the State bank commissioner, made the following statement on the matter:

"The 337,254 persons who own savings bank books showing the amounts of their deposits in savings banks and Maine will be given the opportunity to help the bank commissioner check up and verify the amounts that the banks owe each person.

"These hundreds of thousands of accounts represent $125,625,513, and it is a physical impossibility for the two men have all they can do to keep up with their other work to call in these pass-books and verify the figures.

"Three years ago a law was passed whereby this work should be done every three years, at the State's expense, by persons regularly employed by the banks, under the direction of the bank commissioner.

"As it was done in 1911 it must be done in 1914. The State will spend from $25,000 to $27,000, perhaps more, to do this work but the cost will not be regarded if the results obtained show actual results or a positive check. This can only be brought about by every one helping. As when the proper notice is received or notice is given in the local paper let every one comply with the requirements.

"Your treasurer is just as anxious to show a large percentage of books

IMPORTANCE OF FARM KITCHEN

Is Working For American Housewife. How Her Strength May Be Conserved by Proper Kind of Room.

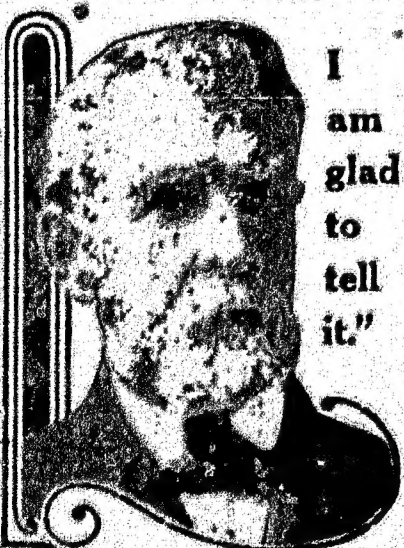

The importance to the farmer of having an economical farm house has been emphasized by the farm architect of the United States department of agriculture, who states that the mental and physical fitness of the laborers both within the house and in the fields are vitally affected by the building that affords the family shelter. The average American farm home has failed to share in the improvements that are every day being made in agricultural conditions and, according to the architect, is a rebuke to our boasted civilization. Relatively, he says, the housewife of a century ago, with her fireplace cooking and log cabin was better provided for than is the housewife today.

The most important building on a farm is the home. The health, comfort and happiness of the family are dependent upon its construction and equipment, and unless these matters are looked after the monetary dairy barn or the economically constructed buildings for stock are of little value. Happiness and contentment in the family are as essential to efficient service as improved tools and outbuildings.

Although the housewife spends, in many cases, a lifetime in her "workshop," the kitchen and the family room, she is not, as a rule, capable of planning a house in the highest degree serviceable and comfortable without assistance. Her help, however, is essential to the farm architect, as the result of his plans most vitally concerns her. In 1910 a western farm paper, at the suggestion of the department of agriculture, conducted a competition for farm house plans. About 600 plans of farm houses were submitted, not one of which was fully satisfactory. The larger number insisted on some particular pet notion and emphasized a single feature to the neglect of other important ones. The men and women who familiarize themselves with the work to be done and then apply themselves to the single task of devising means, are the ones who with the co-operation of the farmer, and their wives, can best handle the farm house problem.

One of the most important details regarding the average American farm house is that it must be inexpensive. The average annual net income of a farmer today, after deducting five per cent interest on his investment, is less than $400. This does not mean that the house may not be attractive. They may, if intelligently planned with the help of vines, shrubs and trees, become the prettiest spots in the landscape, and more beautiful and inexpensive than the crowded city houses. The tenant-house problem is growing in importance as can be seen from the fact that the number of rented farms increased by more than 22,000 during the last decade. Today little more than half the farms in this country are operated by the owners.

"Peruna Cured Me"

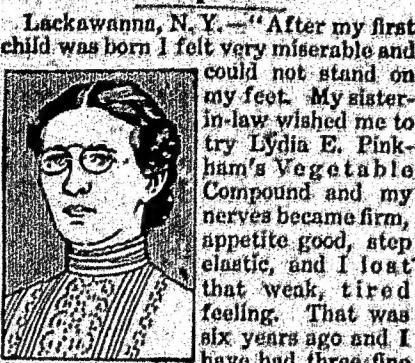

Mr. ROBERT FOWLER, of Okarche, Oklahoma, writes: "To any sufferer of catarrh of the stomach, I am glad to tell it. I was cured of catarrh of the stomach after using a full treatment of Peruna. I was entirely cured. I am now seventy years old, and am in good health, due to always having Peruna at my command. I would not think of going away from home for any length of time without taking a bottle of Peruna along for emergency."

"You are at liberty to use my picture and testimony if you think it will help any one who has stomach trouble."

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, appetite good, sleep elastic, and I lost that weak, tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. P. KREMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from these distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

TO ECONOMIZE THE HOUSE-WIFE'S STRENGTH. The possible economy in household labor and the conservation of the strength of the housewife are two important factors to be considered in the construction of a farm house. Pleasant and comfortable farm homes tend to hold families together; but the cheerless, unfavorable and insanitary homes drive boys and girls to the cities. Investigation of prisons, insane asylums and houses of correction, seem to prove the fact that the sins which account for the existence of these institutions are often bred in inadequate and unhappy farm homes. So this social aspect of the problem is considerable.

The public is awakening to the fact that better farm houses are needed and the special feature which many farm papers now issue as a "House Building Number" proves its interest to thousands of readers.

The Office of Farm Management of the department of agriculture has now undertaken to investigate this problem systematically and to evolve, if possible, practical improvements for the benefit of the farmer's home.

Certain features are often overlooked in providing economical arrangements for the household when they might be easily provided for, use of the specialists of the office of farm management learned from a woman in Pennsylvania, who had been down from overwork, that she had been carrying coal from the barn for years. When the husband was asked if there was any reason why a coal burner could not have been provided near the collection and filled directly from the wagon, he answered that there was none but that no one had ever thought of it. This one detail has been found neglected in other cases where it could have been easily remedied, if only someone had thought of it.

After economy in the construction of the building and in the house work has been attracted, attention will be given to developing beauty. Simplicity in line and good proportions are most to be used of this word beauty, and not so-called applied "ornaments." The simplicity is entirely in keeping with a general plan of economy.

Economy, however, is not a synonym for cheapness. Double strength glass may even be more economical in a tenant house than single strength, not withstanding its greater first cost. A kitchen sink may be a paying investment although it entails a big window, or a fireplace, which has been the pet notion of the housewife. Screened in kitchen porch, sleeping porch, double or triple windows and kitchen conveniences are fine economical features which even the smallest house plans may well consider. Separate dining rooms for families that generally eat in the kitchen are less important, as are "parlors." These separate rooms may have complete system of plumbing, heating and lighting which involve additional expense. The kitchen is the most important room in the farm house.

For the average farmer, economy bars a room especially reserved for weddings and funerals. A back stairway in small houses is an unnecessary luxury. Large halls which are never used to live in, but merely as thoroughfares, are a feature which can be dispensed with in the interest of a smaller outlay of money.

Other features that should give way to a comfortable and convenient kitchen are narrow porches, ill-placed work, numerous angles in walls and roof, needless doors. There should be an intelligent purpose for every cubic foot of space and for every piece of material about the building, if possible.

It may not be found practicable for the department of agriculture to furnish plans and specifications of farm houses worked out for particular individual needs. However, it is believed to be desirable to work out plans and specifications for the general needs of farmers and to illustrate and explain the plans so that the farmer may understand the principles involved and apply them when he remodels his present house. The office of farm management is endeavoring to help the farmer and the farmer's wife along these lines.

FLOWERS AND HOW TO GROW THEM.

Paper Read Before Round Mountain Grange.

Flowers are like children. If a person don't love and care for a baby it will not grow, who ever heard of a mother neglecting her baby and have it do well. A plant or flower needs good treatment.

Do you think a farmer would think of digging a shallow hole and putting in corn or potatoes? No, they plow and harrow, dress it well. That is the way to do with flowers.

I have given away hundreds of daffodils and most every one says they don't bloom. I go to see why, and find they dug a little hole, mostly on green ground, and set out the bulbs, then expect them to bloom.

My garden where I have my flowers is about three feet deep, free from grass, that not of weeds, for I don't get time to keep them down, and they are kept the same as the vegetable garden.

Now some plants don't require so much tending. For instance, take the old fashioned Honeysuckle, for old folks like it (it is called H.). Everybody should love that flower for just one trait. I have noticed it growing on neglected graves, as if covering up the fact that someone who once lived has been forgotten. It is often found in corners of old fashioned gardens, where it grows and blooms and protects against being pushed out entirely. I have it and I pull up loads of it every year, still it grows.

There are some dear old fashioned people yet who still love to speak of it. I love to talk with them. I notice these that get passionately fond over flowers. I can trust, for I find them kind and true friends, but when I find one that calls them worthless trash, when I know they would not make true friends.

Now there are the tulips with their bright faces so early in the spring, in all colors, so easy to grow, just put them in the ground the last of October, set them about four inches deep. No care or trouble, and see how they reward you in the spring.

Then the Yellow Daffodil, how fragrant they are, and the pure white Jonquills, so sweet and nice for cutting.

Then you have later the Sweet Pea. Now is there anything more dainty and beautiful than a bunch of Sweet Peas?

Then in the fall the Dahlias, so many different kinds, and so graceful, then after Jack Frost makes a visit we have the Asters, with their many shades and colors, some so large and ready to greet you and they last so long; then the Chrysanthemums, each stately flower, they seem to say, "Look at me and see how grand I am."

Now don't let us overlook the sweet little Forget-Me-Not, with their tiny blue flowers so like a sweet little girl with blue eyes.

There are a thousand beautiful flowers I have not time to speak of, but they are all beyond man's skill to make, so one should ever say there is no God, after looking at a bed of flowers.

I often wish I had room and time to have beds laid out as I have seen them in England and France, but I cannot do as I wish, so try to do the best with the one talent that is left me.

I am happy among my flowers. I forget there are people that can hate and do things to annoy and hurt the feelings.

I often hear people say, "How do you make them so lovely?" I tell them I get out among my flowers and I have a strange fancy that they know when some one has hurt my feelings and I often find some lovely little blossoms down among the tall weeds to reward me.

Then there is the different plant

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it has a swelling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube, which is not a disease, but a local inflammation of the mucous membrane of the tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube, if cured by our treatment. Send for circulars, free. E. J. CILKIN, M. D., 1110, Toledo, Ohio. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

peas, some need one kind of treatment and some another. In looking over books or papers, my eye always catches everything that helps to destroy them.

Now a few words about the roses. How many, after the bloom is gone, don't even look at them, while I go over them, cut out all the dead stalks, cut back those that need it, and put soil around the roots, to supply what nature cannot. In the fall a sprinkling of dressing or bone meal is put on, if they need it, then there is the training of the vines, they grow better, then in the fall all the dead tops are cut, or pulled up and either burned or thrown away to rot.

Now, don't think it all easy work, for it is not, but it is healthy work, and gets a woman out doors. No need of consumption if a person will do this work instead of staying in and doing so much fancy work, but they have got to love the work, also flowers, or it will be a failure.

I could make this more interesting right among my flowers than I can write it, as I do not have good luck writing.

I hope I have made this plain and interesting to all.

CURING MEAT ON THE FARM.

Useful Recipes for the Economical and Satisfactory Preservation of Beef and Pork.

The best way to eat meat is to eat it while fresh, for there is no way of preserving it that will retain all the nutrition and all the flavor. It is, nevertheless, frequently desirable to cure meat at home, and there is no reason why this can not be done satisfactorily and economically. Salt, sugar or molasses, baking soda, and a little saltpeter are the only ingredients necessary.

Ordinarily the curing of meat should be begun from 24 to 36 hours after the animal is slaughtered. This allows sufficient time for the animal heat to leave the meat entirely, but not sufficient to permit decay to set in. Once the meat is tainted, no amount of preservatives will bring back its proper flavor. On the other hand, if salt is applied too soon, obnoxious gases will be retained and the meat will possess an offensive odor. It is also impossible to obtain good results when the meat is frozen.

Three useful recipes for popular forms of cured meat are given below. The only equipment necessary for them are the ingredients already mentioned and a clean hardwood barrel, or a large stone jar or crock. In considering these recipes it is well to remember that, on the whole, brine-cured meats are best for farm use. They are less trouble to prepare and the brine affords better protection against insects and vermin. A cool, moist cellar is the best place for brine curing. The cellar should be dark and tight enough to prevent flies and vermin.

RECIPES FOR CURING.

Cured Beef.—The pieces commonly used for curing are the plate, rump, cross ribs, and brisket, or, in other words, the cheaper cuts of meat. The loin, ribs, and other fancy cuts are more often used fresh, and since there is more or less waste of materials in curing, this is well. The pieces for curing should be cut into convenient sized joints, say 3 or 6 inches square. It should be the aim to cut them all about the same thickness, so that they will make an even layer in the barrel.

Meat from fat animals makes choicer cured beef than that from poor animals. When the meat is thoroughly cooled it should be cured as soon as possible, as any decay in the meat is likely to spoil the brine during the curing process. Under no circumstances should the meat be brined while it is frozen. Weigh out the meat and allow 8 pounds of salt to each 100 pounds of meat; sprinkle a layer of salt one quarter of an inch in depth over the bottom of the barrel; pack in as closely as possible the cuts of meat, making a layer 3 or 4 inches in thickness; then put on a layer of salt, following that with another layer of meat, repeating until the meat and salt have all been packed in the barrel, care being taken to reserve salt enough for a good layer over the top. After the package has stood over night add, for every 100 pounds of meat, 4 pounds of sugar, 4 ounces of baking soda, and 4 ounces of saltpeter dissolved in a gallon of tepid water. These gallons more of water should be sufficient to cover the quantity. In cases more or less than 100 pounds of meat is to be cured, make the brine in the proportion given. A loose board cover, weighted down with a heavy stone or piece of iron, should be put on the meat to keep all of it under the brine. In case any should project, rust would start and the brine would spoil in a short time.

It is not necessary to boil the brine except in warm weather. If the meat has been cured during the winter and must be kept into the summer season, it would be well to watch the brine closely during the spring, as it is more likely to spoil at that time than at any other season. If the brine appears to be ripp or does not drip freely from the finger when immersed and lifted, it should be turned off and new brine added. After carefully washing the meat, the sugar or molasses in the brine has a tendency to ferment, and, unless the brine is kept in a cool place, there is sometimes trouble from this source. The meat should be kept in the brine 25 to 40 days to secure the rough curing.

Dried Beef.—The round is commonly used for dried beef, the inside of the thigh being considered the choicest piece, as it is slightly more tender than the outside of the round. The round should be cut lengthwise of the grain of the meat in preparing for dried beef, so that the muscle fibres may be cut crosswise when the dried beef is sliced for table use. A light jar or crock is necessary for curing.

The process is as follows: To each 100 pounds of meat weigh out 5 pounds of salt, 3 pounds of granulated sugar, and 2 ounces of saltpeter; mix thoroughly together. Rub the meat on all surfaces with a third of the mixture and pack it in the jar as tightly as possible. Allow it to remain three days, when it should be removed and rubbed again with another third of the mixture. In repacking put at the bottom the pieces that were on top the first time. Let stand for three days, when they should be removed and rubbed with the remaining third of the mixture and allowed to stand for three days more. The meat is then ready to be removed from the pickle. The liquid forming in the jars should not be removed, but the meat should be repacked in the liquid each time. After being removed from the pickle the meat should be smoked and hung in a dry attic or near the kitchen fire where the water will evaporate from it. It may be used at any time after smoking, although the longer it hangs in the dry atmosphere the drier it will get. The drier the climate, in general, the more easily meats can be dried. In arid regions good dried meat can be made by exposing it fresh to the air, with protection from flies.

Plate salt pork.—Rub each piece of meat with fine common salt and pack closely in a barrel. Let stand over night. The next day weigh out 10 pounds of salt and 2 ounces of saltpeter to each 100 pounds of meat and dissolve in 4 gallons of boiling water.

Four this brine over the meat when cold, cover, and weight down to keep it under the brine. Meat will pack best if cut into pieces about 6 inches square. The pork should be kept in the brine till used.

Sugar-cured hams and bacon.—When the meat is cooled, rub each piece with salt and allow it to drain over night. Then pack it in a barrel with the hams and shoulders in the bottom, using the strips of bacon to fill in between or to put on top. Weigh out for each 100 pounds of meat 8 pounds of salt, 2 pounds of brown sugar, and 2 ounces of saltpeter. Dissolve all in 4 gallons of water, and cover the meat with the brine. For summer use it will be safest to boil the brine before using. In that case it should be thoroughly cooled before it is used. For winter curing it is not necessary to boil the brine. Bacon strips should remain in this brine four to six weeks; hams six to eight weeks. This is a standard recipe and has given the best of satisfaction. Hams and bacon cured in the spring will keep right through the summer after they are smoked. The meat will be sweet and palatable if it is properly smoked, and the flavor will be good.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

At a largely attended conference, held early this week, of the resident directors and vice-presidents of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, it was decided to hold the eleventh annual convention of the organization in Washington on December 9, 10 and 11, next. So vastly important will this meeting be that it was decided to make every possible effort to bring to Washington the largest number of delegates that has ever attended the conventions of this great waterway association for the beneficial effect it will have upon Congress in reflecting the sentiment of the nation toward improved waterways.

In view of the continued attacks upon the River and Harbor Appropriation bill, Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, President of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, is more than anxious to make the forthcoming convention the most memorable in the history of the organization which has, for upwards of ten years, carried on a nationwide propaganda for developing the deserving rivers and harbors of the country.

The situation as to the River and Harbor bill has not changed, the All-buster against the measure continuing with no visible signs of its coming to an end. The great majority of the Senate are becoming heartily tired of the tactics of the opposition and are seriously thinking of inaugurating night sessions in order to get the bill out of the way or in a position to be voted upon by them. If it then appears that items are vicious, the Senate will decide whether they should stay in or be stricken out.

The buy-a-bale-of-cotton movement, which was originated in the south a short time ago in order to help out the cotton planters, has grown to enormous proportions. President Wilson's purchase of a bale giving the movement a most unexpected, but none the less gratifying, impetus.

At ten cents a pound, it is contended, many business firms and individuals could afford to buy a bale or more and it would not take long to dispose of the surplus in this way which would give the planters a chance to start the wheels of commerce moving again. But if the south is not given a chance the industries of the northern and eastern states will seriously suffer for want of money with which to buy, according to far-sighted southerners who see in the present situation anything but satisfaction.

A preliminary examination of the reports from 9,533 post offices in operation as postal savings depositories at the close of August, 1914, indicates that the deposits amount to $48,000,000. The increase in August was approximately $4,200,000, which is the largest since the system began operation in January, 1911. New York City leads all offices in postal savings deposits, followed closely by Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

It is not generally known to travelers on the Ohio river that their safety is looked after by a dog, but the steamboat captains know it and are correspondingly grateful. The dog is known to the river men as Old Ship and is the property of a watchman who is employed by the government at Silver Grove, Kentucky, to place the danger signals in order to warn approaching steamboats and other craft.

Just before sundown the watchman and his dog can be seen coming down the river bank. The watchman stands on the bank while Ship picks up a lantern in his mouth and runs to the end of the dike where the lantern is placed in position. The dog will return to his master and the two will walk up the river to the next dike where the same performance is repeated.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING POTATO EXHIBITS.

In making exhibits of potatoes, great care should be exercised in selecting and displaying the samples. The attractiveness of the exhibit, as well as the quality of the potatoes, will have much weight with the judges. The following points are to be carefully observed in preparing potatoes for exhibition:

SIZE OF POTATOES. The potatoes should be approximately of the following dimensions: Length, 1 1/4 inches; width, 2 1/4 inches; and depth, 1 3/4 inches. They should carry these dimensions well towards the ends, thereby avoiding irregularity.

DISEASE AND INJURY. No disease, blemishes or injury of any kind should be present, such as rhizoctonia, common scab, powdery scab, green color due to long exposure to the sun, or any broken conditions of the skin.

RIPENESS OF TUBERS. The potatoes should be ripe and firm in texture. The ripeness of potatoes can be indicated by the toughness of the skin. If the skin peels easily under pressure of the thumb, the potato is unripe and should not be exhibited.

UNIFORMITY OF EXHIBIT. Each exhibitor should be sure that all the potatoes are of the same size and shape, as well as of the same variety. Great care should be exercised on this very important point.

DEPTH OF EYES. The eyes should be shallow as deep eyes indicate a large percentage of waste when peeled.

SIZE OF EXHIBIT. At the State Exhibit the potatoes which conform to the preceding conditions are required. The size of the local exhibits vary according to the local requirements. Information regarding this can be obtained from the Local Leader.

REQUIREMENTS FOR EXHIBIT. Unless otherwise provided for, each exhibitor must furnish a receptacle for displaying the sample. The package should be neat and attractive. Packages larger than are required to hold the exhibit should be avoided, if possible. Old and dirty boxes should not be used under any conditions.

It would be well for each club to decide upon some receptacle so that a more attractive and uniform display will be made.

For further information apply to H. F. Mitchell, State Leader, College of Agriculture, Orono, Maine.

From the Experience of Bethel People

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Bethel residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

"My back pained me and the kidney secretions were unnatural," says Jasper C. Cates, of Mill Hill, Bethel. "I know that my kidneys were not right and I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Bosserman's Drug Store. They soon brought me relief and I improved in every way. The statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago, still holds good."

DO HORSES THINK?

Masterlinck's Affirmative Answer Now Supported by Muhammed—German Investigations.

The upholders of the "thinking horse" have found a friend in Maurice Masterlinck. In the Neue Rundschau for June the Belgian poet describes a visit to the animals of Herr Krall in Eberfeld, which has resulted in his complete conversion. His first introduction was to Muhammed, with whom he soon struck up a warm friendship, so warm indeed that Masterlinck appears to have had some difficulty in restraining the animal's exuberant desire to lick and kiss him. Muhammed passed the usual spelling tests and others in the presence and the absence of Herr Krall, but in his tests in mathematics Masterlinck seems to have been unfortunate. His own complete ignorance of the science and his nervous haste led him to set Muhammed tasks to which no solution was possible, and in the end both horse and poet had to be rescued by Herr Krall. Masterlinck can give no explanation for the horse's strange powers. "If there is no difference between the subconsciousness of men and animals," he writes, "one must put down to subconsciousness all that one cannot attribute to intelligence, then the revelation becomes still more perplexing. We must then grant to the horse—and in the same way to all other living things—a sense analogous to that which lies buried under the veil of our reason."

"It is clear that the endless mystery of figures can be expressed by a few simple gestures easily within the reach of most animals. But, who knows, if we could bring a horse or dog along the right way, whether they could not express by the same movements still other mysteries? We have been able to give them a more or less clear idea of the value of some figures and perhaps of the meaning of certain simple arithmetical processes, and that appears to have been enough to open to them the most secret regions of mathematics, where all questions are answered in advance. Could we now impress upon them a corresponding idea of the future, and give them at the same time the means of translating what they see in it, it is hardly too fantastic to conclude that they would have in the same way the entry into strange visions of another kind, which have been preserved from our jealous intelligence."

The result of all this is for Masterlinck almost a new philosophy. "We might almost believe that a shoulder of awakening, never before experienced, is spreading itself over every living thing, that a new force and impulsion in vivifying the spiritual atmosphere and is making itself felt in the animal world as well. A new word goes from Month to month, and the same manifestations come from all four corners of the world to force themselves upon our attention. It is as if the dumb and stubborn spirit of the universe, which has hidden itself in busy silence, from the silence of the stones, flowers, and insects, to the silence of the stars—as if this spirit is at last to betray some secret, through which we shall learn to know it better, or through which it will learn to know itself."

Whether the skeptics will be any more convinced by the imagination of poet than by the observation of those scientists who have already declared in favor of the thinking horse is doubtful. For himself M. Masterlinck has no doubts.

AUTUMN.

If the city people could see the mountains and woods when changing to autumn hues, I believe they would make special effort to remain late. To me, the most beautiful time of the year is at hand. It seems to me to compare with a life well spent, beautifully changing, and gracefully growing old, the four seasons fitting and applying to the four divisions of life—youth, manhood, maturity, old age. Many beautiful lessons and thoughts are derived from these ideas by those of reflective minds, which bring comfort in times of trouble and affliction.

VALUE OF A SMILE

Salesgirls Being Instructed—Other Points in Making of a Clerk.

The money value of a smile and a pleasant voice is being taught in a most convincing manner to young women clerks of Milwaukee, Wis., in salesmanship classes recently established in the city continuation school, an institution which is attracting such wide attention that its methods and results are being investigated by visiting delegations of educators from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit and other cities, even those as far west as the Pacific coast.

"Always greet your customer with a smile and wait upon him or her pleasantly and cheerfully."

Increase your vocabulary. Never use the overvalued question, "Something in hats?" or "Something in towels?" as the case may be.

"Cultivate a low, pleasing tone of voice."

"Be well informed, especially on current events. Be able to talk about something else than where you were the night before."

This is the essence of the creed that is winning increased salaries for Milwaukee clerks, several recent advances in the weekly stipend being directly traceable to the work done in the salesmanship classes of the continuation school conducted under the state law.

On certain days of each week one of the assistant instructors in the salesmanship classes spends several hours behind the counters in the various stores which are co-operating with the school, noting the various problems with which the clerk has to contend and getting practical knowledge of selling.

Three times each week Mrs. A. Engler, head of the department, lectures to the saleswomen in the three department stores that are giving the heartiest co-operation. Any problems presented by the clerks are solved in the classroom for the benefit of all the girls.

Instruction as to how to dress is also part of the course. A recent lesson on color in general was followed by a discussion of the effect of subdued and intense colors, and the girls were finally taught the artistic value of dressing in subdued colors, with only a touch of the intense color to give contrast.

But above all the things the girls are taught to be pleasant.

"We aim to teach these girls the value of service," said Mrs. Engler. "The three big points that we emphasize are to greet the customer with a smile, to increase the vocabulary and to cultivate pleasing tones. We try to instill into the girls that a customer will never be cross if the person behind the counter smiles and is pleasant. We teach store spelling, English and arithmetic, citizenship, commercial geography and hygiene; this latter is practically sex hygiene."

four small diningroom pictures in her hand costing 25 cents each. The girl, remembering the instructions she had received only a day before and thinking she would put it to the test, took the pictures, but added: "I should like to show you our latest pictures which we have just got in." The outcome of the suggestion was that her sales were $21, instead of $1.

Salesmanship is taught by practical demonstrations. The following is a typical scene in one of the classes:—

One of the young women went into the cloak-room, put on her hat, took an umbrella and walked into the shop, which was a long table piled with glugham and white aprons. The customer was of the silent type. She walked up to the counter hauled over the aprons, opened several, looked them over silently, saying nothing.

She went down to the bottom of a pile and rearranged the aprons on top until she came to one which she opened up and tried on. After looking at almost every apron on the counter she went away, saying that she did not see a thing she wanted.

All the while the clerk, smilingly and in pleasant manner, tried to make a sale. The other members of the class took notes to use in the discussion which followed. The spirit of criticism was friendly. The atmosphere of the class was play rather than a school. The customer was criticized for putting her umbrella on the counter and upon articles for sale. The clerk was equally criticized for not removing the article before proceeding with the sale.

The clerk was also criticized for misuse of words in speaking of her wares and especially for saying that an apron was pretty when in fact it was not. The point was made that, desirous of making the sale, she could have said with truth that the apron was practical and one of the best on the table.—New York Sun.

Common salt continues to be imported in considerable quantity, more than a million barrels coming to Atlantic ports last year, according to the United States Geological Survey. The country is amply able, however, to supply the entire home demand, as the capacity of its salt mines and works is in excess of the present output. The imports last year were only 3.3 per cent of the total consumption, whereas in 1890 the percentage was 17.2.

NEVER SAW A BUN DANCE. It was the grammar lesson and the teacher was explaining the difference between a common and abstract noun. "An example of a common noun is dog," she said, "for you can see it, while you cannot see anything that is an abstract noun. For instance, have any of you seen abundance?"

There was silence for about a minute. Then a little boy got up and said, "Please, ma'am, I have never seen a bun dance, but I have seen a cake walk."

SEVERE RHEUMATIC
PAINS DISAPPEAR

Rheumatism depends on an acid which flows in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain. This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive processes, and remains there because the liver, kidneys and skin are too torpid to carry it off.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old-time blood tonic, is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and through the blood on the liver, kidneys and skin, which it stimulates, and at the same time it improves the digestion.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. Sold by all druggists.

THE WAR TAX.

A regular civil war has broken out in commercial circles as to the manner of producing war revenue legislation. One of the earliest effects of the war that has hit the press of the country is the cancellation by the American Tobacco Company of $1,000,000 worth of advertising, which had been arranged for the coming twelve months. This company has been using all of the leading periodicals, and has been a patron of country newspapers as well as the larger papers in the cities. In the case of the country press the loss will not be heavy as the American Tobacco Company boasts of the skill displayed by it in obtaining space from publishers at ridiculously low figures. It is stated that much of its space has been bought for as low as four cents an inch, and last year a new employee won fame in the advertising field of New York by the fact that he was reported to have cut down the advertising cost of the tobacco trust $75,000 in three months, and yet the tobacco trust which has perhaps done more to demoralize country newspaper advertising than any other organization in existence, likely expects the newspapers to help them escape the tax that is to fall upon them.

ADVISE USE OF LIME.

Mr. H. M. Camp, who is acknowledged as an expert on soil conditions in a statement issued through the Lime Service Bureau of Washington, reminds us that the world's supply of potash is obtained from Germany, and that with the source of supply cut off by the European war, that there will inevitably follow a famine of this material as soon as present stocks are exhausted. The price of potash has already mounted skywards. As potash is a soil essential, the predicted famine bids fair to be a serious matter to our agricultural interests. Mr. Camp says that lime, in addition to valuable action in neutralizing the soil activity and supplying the needed calcium for plant growth, has the property of rendering soluble and available to plant life the store of inert potash in the soil, and he therefore concludes that by the application of lime to the soil will release the potash.

THE TERRIBLE TURK.

The Turkish Ambassador in defending the policies of his country recited a whole lot of unpleasant facts concerning some of our own internal conditions, calling particular attention to the lynching of negroes, as indicating that the people of the United States are no further advanced than those of Turkey, where missionaries are occasionally hamstrung, killed, or turned loose with their ears cut off. The State Department took exception to what the Ambassador had to say, and the chances are that if he breaks over the trades again that he will be asked to pack his trunk.

Turkey has been an outlaw among the nations, according to the viewpoint of the Washington government, and if that country imposes 100 per cent tariff increase on the importations of American products, as has been threatened, the United States will raise a protest. Whether that will be effective or not remains to be seen. Nothing short of a warship, sent to Turkey during the Roosevelt administration, has ever appeared to influence the Sultan's government.

WHO WANTS WAR?

The locomotive and automobile, the typewriter, electric lights, and automatic Maxim guns are modern inventions which have produced their tremendous effect upon present day civilization and warfare. It seems to be considered a gratifying boast for the navy officials to tell how battleships which a few years ago were considered the pick of perfection, have been relegated to the junk heap. The United States has spent $477,572,532.23 for maintaining its navy. The appropriation for the present fiscal year is $139,581,331.61. If the big navy advocates, who are very nearly sufficient in number to control Congress, should have their way, this annual appropriation will be doubled. While the United States is piling itself upon the fact that it is a nation of peace, yet it is a positive fact that between sixty and seventy cents of every dollar collected in taxes is spent upon war measures and pensions that have grown out of previous wars. Ask your Senator or your Congressman about it, and he will promptly inform you: "Oh, we have to do it because other countries are doing the same thing." In view of the evidence of fearful destruction going on in Europe, the wisdom of maintaining peace in such a manner comes into grave question. The 3,000 miles of border separating the United States and Canada does not require a single musket or an ounce of powder to maintain peace—and yet Canada is a foreign country. Europe is looking to the United States more today than ever before in history, and the neutrality of our people is essential. It may be that Uncle Sam will talk the great powers into disarmament, but if he enters upon such a course he will need the support and sympathy of the masses of the people of the United States, who may expect to be resisted in their efforts by the war makers of our own country, by men who lead easy lives by the army and navy, and who conscientiously keep up disturbing talk in order to preserve their own power. This is carried so far that each year when the appropriations for new warships are considered by Congress, some sort of a bogus war cry is started. A great many of the most intelligent people of the country are more convinced that now is the time to strike for disarmament of the powers of the world. Men and women who believe in this sort of thing should let their representatives of government know their viewpoints. Europe will soon have all the war it wants, and if the disheartened people and the great United States in the lead for universal peace, it may be that great benefits to the world and civilization will ensue. The theory that a powerful army and navy are the only guardians of peace has brought its direful results to Europe. Now is the time for those who believe in the foolishness of such a policy to exert their influence to stop this barbaric inheritance that has come down from savage races.

WHY'S AN EGG.

Since the first hen crossed the road the short-winged fowl has had its partisans, and most people who have had an opportunity have at some time or another "raised chickens." Although this has been going on for centuries, the same old question is discussed as to whether egg farming can be made to pay. The average hen's egg weighs about two or three ounces and varies in length from two to three inches. Some one who may or may not know what he is talking about, has declared that 200,000,000 eggs are consumed each week in the United States. The estimate seems to be fair enough as it is only three eggs per person. If then these 200,000,000 eggs were placed in a row, that is, end to end, they would cover 10,000 miles, which is considerably more than one-third of the stretch around the globe. Then why not commend the industry of the faithful hen, who, whether she can be made to pay or not, is conducting her affairs on thousands of farms and back yards. The world loves chickens and her products; and whether she pays or not her fruit will ever remain permanent on the breakfast table.

UNITED STATES ALMOST INDEPENDENT IN MINERAL RESOURCES.

Probably no other nation in the world so nearly approaches absolute independence in respect to mineral resources as the United States.

A glance at the statistics of mineral imports affords a means of comprehending in a broad way how great and complex is the task of attaining national independence in the mining, metallurgical, and chemical industries. Last year the imports of mineral products, both crude and manufactured, exceeded $270,000,000. Of this total probably $200,000,000 represents raw materials and crude metals, the value of these imports being about 8 per cent of that of the domestic output. In this list of imports the larger items named in the order of value are unmanufactured copper, precious stones, nitrate of soda, copper ore and matte, nickel, tin, iron ore, pig iron and steel, petroleum products, manganese ores and alloys, platinum, aluminum, pyrite, graphite, stone, potash, and magnesite. This country has an abundant supply of most of these mineral products that are now imported in large amounts, and as to them it can be independent of foreign countries. The only essential minerals of the first rank of which the United States has no known supply at all commensurate with its needs are nitrates, potash salts, tin, nickel, and platinum, the last three comprising two essential mineral fertilizers and three very useful metals.
